HUA HIN FACTS

For over a century, Thailand's royals have been zipping off to Hua Hin to get away from it all. Knowledgeable Bangkokians soon followed in their footsteps, drawn to the surrounding natural parks, serene beach life and some of the country's best seaside restaurants. From world-class golf courses and elegant palaces to crystalline waterfalls and jungle-clad mountains, Hua Hin's surroundings can take weeks to explore.

Travel to Hua Hin is now easier and more economical via Suvarnabhumi Airport-Hua Hin hotels shuttle: www.airporthuahinbus.com

NEARBY SIGHTS AND ATTRACTIONS

Hua Hin Beach

The peaceful, Five kilometres. long beach is perfectly suited to long jogs, romantic walks, horse riding and kitesurfing during the day. At night, visitors should make sure to watch the moon rise, an unforgettable Hua Hin experience. The hotel is located just 100 metres from the beach. Beach access is via a quiet private road belonging to the resort.

Klai Kang Won Palace

"Klai kang won" means 'far from worries'. The seaside retreat was built in a European architectural style in the 1920s by King Rama VII. It is still used by the present monarch.

Marukhathaiyawan Palace

This beachside palace was formerly used as a summer residence by King Rama VI. Designed by an Italian architect and built of golden teak, it is both charming and perfectly suited to beachside living thanks to its use of natural ventilation and elevated pavilions.

Khao Takiab

Located at the southern end of Hua Hin Beach, the temple-topped hill of Khao Takiab is well worth climbing for its scattering of Buddhist shrines and panoramic views.

Khao Sam Roi Yod National Park

"Khao Sam Roi Yod" translates to "The Mountain with 300 Peaks," an apt description for the jagged, jungle-clad outcrops running through the park's 24,500 acres of marshlands. The waterways are home to a large variety of waterfowl, while the limestone masses contain three popular caves: Phraya Nakhon, Kaeo and Sai. Phraya Nakhon Cave is the most dramatic as it contains a pavilion, built in 1890 by King Rama V, which is showered with light from a small crevice, tens of metres above it.

The major focal point is the Kaeng Krachan Dam, a 58-metre-high and 760-metre-long structure that dominates a scenic reservoir.

Cicada Market

Cicada Market is created to connect artists, creators, designers with tourists, students and the wider community, bringing together culture, arts and lifestyles. Cicada offers visitors the chance to explore local contemporary art, including handmade decorative items, fashionable garments, collectable second-hand items and a few offerings from small, local manufacturers. Opened every Friday, Saturday from 16:00 hrs. to 23:00 hrs. and Sunday 16:00 hrs. to 22:00 hrs.

Hua Hin Night Market
